A Space of Allowing Radio with Nancy Coco
Welcoming All That Wants to Be Present Today

Seattle, WA, July 19th, 2018

We live in a Renaissance world, a space where changing expectations, roles, and stories keep us on the edge of our seats. Who says you can't switch jobs, go back to school, retire early? Join Coach Nancy as she debunks traditional expectations and roles, shares her own unlikely story, and creates a space of allowing for renaissance and reinvention at every stage of life.

About Nancy Coco

Nancy Coco, M.Ed., CPC, coaches people who are undergoing life transitions as well as those who wish to find their voice as writers. A lifelong teacher and learner, Nancy taught middle and high school and then went on to serve as director of a professional development network for educators at Penn State University as well as directed and assisted the network at the state and national levels. In her next role as Director of Continuing Education, Nancy honed her leadership, communication, and grant writing skills to help transform communities through collective impact projects until her retirement from education after a successful 30-year career.

Forging a Renaissance path of transformation, Nancy answered her inner call to retire and become a professional life coach, hosting retreats and working in alliance with individual clients and groups. As coach, she helps people step into their power and access the courage to transform their self-doubt into self-confidence and success. Her greatest joy is creating a space of allowing to support clients with loving compassion on their journey. She trusts that serving as a curious, loving witness will transform shadow to light.
